AREA INFO

~ SIAN KA'AN ~

Translated from Mayan “Where the sky is born”, Sian Ka’an is a biological reserve which covers 1.3 million acres. Created by presidential decree in 1986, it was declared a UNESCO World Heritage Site in 1987.

The reserve is home to approximately 2,000 people and 23 known archeological sites, some yielding artifacts dated to 2,300 years ago. Your house manager will be happy to give you more information about the reserve, the archeological sites, and the local flora and fauna.

~ WHAT TO EXPECT ~

Situated in an eco-reserve, CASA CANTARENA is designed to have the smallest ecological impact possible. A carbon-neutral villa, power is generated through solar energy and a wind turbine, with a backup generator. Purified water is brought in and waste products are organically processed.

During your stay, please avoid flushing toilet paper and other products in the toilet, using the bins (emptied daily) instead. Please keep the door of your room closed while the air conditioning is on.

~ HELP US PROTECT THE SEA TURTLES ~

Sian Ka’an is home to abundant wildlife, including several species of sea turtles. If you spot a nest on the beach, please do not disturb it. This includes using any kind of flashlights. Nesting season is usually from May through October, and if you are lucky enough to see a nesting turtle, please keep a two meter distance. If the nest is unmarked, please notify the concierge or any person of our staff, so they can contact the local organization that protects the turtles.

LOCAL BITES & SIPS

~ DINING IN TULUM ~

ARCA

Arca's food is micro-seasonal and a current representation of the flora and fauna around us. The dishes have been created to be in tune with our roots and traditions, with bold and explosive flavors. Open-fire cooking is integral to their menu, which is composed of small plates intended to be shared, a way of eating that is inherent in Mexican culture.

OCCUMARE

(at Be Tulum)

Fine-dining tribute to Mexico's rich culinary heritage. Created by Chef Elias Silva, the menu pays homage to authentic Mexican gourmet, inviting diners on a surprising journey of flavor through the many regions of Mexico. Made from scratch and with seasonal produce, traditional dishes include fish with guajillo, tongue in green sauce, and chocolate with pinole. All vegetables are carefully collected from their organic garden, a sustainable food program with local communities of Yucatan. The restaurant is also known for its curated mixology experience based on Mexican distilleries, and a boutique selection of natural and world-class wines.

HARTWOOD

Ingredients are collected daily from Yucatan markets and farms that allows to offer customers a new and exciting taste of a community that has existed for centuries. All of these aspects come together each day and allow for a humble way of cooking within an environment that we are truly grateful to be a part of. All cooking is done by open fire within our handmade wood burning oven and grill. Every single ingredient that is touched is deeply rooted within Mundo Maya. Hartwood uses only sustainable fishing methods to ensure a thriving and healthy aquatic life.
